STUDENT ARTISTS OF THE MONTH | DECEMBER

Gallery 510 is proud to feature the artwork of Baylee Bollard and Emilee Collins. Baylee's teacher, Andrew Jones, from MacArthur High School submitted her work & Heather McKay from St. Teresa submitted Emilee's work.

The painting on the right is by Baylee Bollard, a senior at MacArthur High School. The title is "Pirates in the Storm" and the medium is gouache.

Baylee is a devoted art student who is interested in becoming an art teacher. She is currently working on her AP Art portfolio. This piece is a part of that portfolio. She is creating images that depict the adventures of her D&D campaign with her friends. Her favorite art medium is gouache painting, but she also dabbles in digital art and ink. She is looking at attending either ISU or the Art Institute of Chicago next year.

The painting to the left is by Emilee Collins. She is a Junior at St. Teresa High School. Emilee plans on studying to be a vet tech upon graduation.

She enjoys creating in multiple mediums and says that the most important component of creating art is to have fun with it. Her favorite artist, and one of her greatest art influences, is Leonid Afremof.

Additionally, this painting was created 90% with her hands and 10% brush.

“Daisy Dance” above is by Tracey Maras. It is now at the Decatur Airport. Her pastel paintings will be on display for November & December.

Jim Hill shares: “Since I have become more or less housebound I have been working on an alternate "art" form with my editing program (Serif PhotoPlus x7) to create kaleidoscopic images using many of my photographs as fodder. So far I have come up with 150 or so images.”

Each photograph has dozens of variations from which to choose. The main problem lies in the selection of a pleasing, to my eye, image. Left is one such image.” Jim can print these in any size you choose.
